TRAFS WHICH OWERES AND PURCHAS SHEW OF OREELVATION—ALL SORTS OF TRICKS PLAYED UPON MINE-OWNERS AND MINING ENGINEERS.

Salt Lake City, June 23,—When Is Benjamin F. Butler was on his way to Salt Lake City a few days ago, be compiled a seat in the car with a prominent Mormon. Ben was making some inquiries about Utah mines, and the Mormon began expatisting on the merits of a wonderful mine in Southern Utah. After he had proceeded at some length, Ben abruptly asked: "Have you any interest in this mine?" The Mormon evaded the question, and continued sounding the praises of the property. Again Ben asked the question, and continued sounding the praises of the property. Again Ben asked the question, and continued sounding the praises of the property. Again Ben asked the question, and continued sounding the praises of the property. Again Ben asked the question, and repeated it until his companion was compelled to admit that he did have an interest in the mine. The general then asked if he wanted to sell it.

istics of either the mine-owner of the mining sharp.

There have been three properties whose manipulation has cost the Territory of Utah millions of dollars by retarding the development of its mining interests, and their history for niches an illustration of another phase of mining management that issure to and on injury to the interests of all concerned. The history of the Emma Mine and the Flagstaff Mine is now supplemented by that of the Old Telegraph Mine. The two former were purchased by English people for sums far greater than they were worth at the time, and in both cases the purchasers sent out expensive management that proceeded at once to develop the properties as though their yield was unlimited. Reckiess and unbusiness-like management, and a consequent failure to realize, each disgusted the owners, and the mines oame back finally into the hands of the original owners, or to American lessees. As soon as these properties. oame back finally into the bands of the original owners, or to American lessees. As soon as these properties passed beyond the centrol of the Eoglish owners, ore once more came in sight, and to-day, under careful management, large sums of money are being realized. In the first instance, the mines were all right, although not by any means worth what was paid for them, and under good management the principal might possibly have been saved to the purchasers.

do snydead work of consequence, and when the vein was apparently exhaunted, neglected the prospecting which has since developed new and richer bodies of ore. If they managed their mines in the business-like way which has enabled the Ontario, with poorer prospects, to pay nearly $3,000,000 of dividends, tony would not to-day be the cause that has a trut out English capital from Utah. In the case of the Old Telegraph Company, the French purchasers paid $3,000,000 for a property that L. E. From other sources it is ascertained that the Indian office is in possession of evidence that division exists among the Ponca on the subject of removal, a part preferring to remain where they are, as intimated by Standing Buffale, the second head chief, during the late visit to Washington, unless fed by government. It is believed the number who will elect to return to Dakots will be very small. all other methods fail, money is frequently used to good advantage, for a matter of $10,000 or $20,000 is no hing where hundreds of thousands are involved. There is a class of mining experts who make a handsom : living working for both parties to saler, like the real estate dealer, why receives commissions from both sid so One of these men recently reported that a certain mining property in Western Utah could ship 100 tons a day with a force of fifty men. The actual result, as since proved, shows a yield of twenty tons. The popular definition here of a mining expert is, "A young man who parts his hair in the middle, and graduated rom Freiburg."
